1993/94 AUET

The Asia University English Placement Test (AUET) was given to all entering freshman in April, 1993 and during the second week of December, 1993. In addition, the test was given in June, 1994 at each of the consortium universities shortly after the International Relations and Economics students completed the Asia University America Program (AUAP). This test emphasizes listening comprehension over reading comprehension and does not test the students' speaking and writing abilities. A maximum of 60 points is possible.

In reading the graphs, the December, 1993 results show a clear improvement in student scores achieved in April, 1993 while the June, 1994 results show a tremendous improvement. The scores of the Economics students who participated in AUAP were not available at this printing and the Business and Law students who attended the AUAP Program have not yet returned to Japan.

1994 AUET

These graphs show the results of the AUET given to the 1994 freshman at Asia University. The same test was given in April and December, 1994 and they show a clear improvement in student scores.

1993/94 I-TOEFL (CYCLE I)

The Institutional Test of English as a Foreign Language (I-TOEFL) was given to students participating in the Asia University America Program (AUAP) in April and December of their freshman year in 1993. The test was given again in September, 1994 after the Cycle I students returned from the U.S. after completing the AUAP Program. The Business and Law students have not yet returned to Japan. The graphs also show those who achieved a score of over 500 points.

1994 I-TOEFL

These graphs show the results of the I-TOEFL given to the 1994 freshman participating in the AUAP Program. Unfortunately, the scores do not reflect much progress among all the faculties; therefore, we must find the reason behind this. The different tests were given in April and December, 1994. These students will be taking the I-TOEFL after completing the AUAP Program in 1995.
